BODY OF LOST DOLE AVIATOR THOT FOUND?

Man Washed Ashore on Pacific Coast May be Lieut. Knope

Ventura, Cal., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Brought up by the tide and current from Davy Jones' locker, the body of what once was a well built, athletic man of 30 was being held by authorities here today in an attempt to learn whether it was one of the long missing Dole fliers.

The body, which obviously had been in the salt water for several months, had but one outward identifying mark—a black taffeta neckerchief like those worn by American sailors. First guesses were that it might be the body of Lieut. Vilas R. Knope, U. S. N. navigator of the ill-fated Dole flight plane "Miss Doran." Knope, the navigator of the "Miss Doran" was the only navy man among the seven persons who were lost at sea last August while attempting flights to Hawaii. With Knope were Miss Mildred Doran, Michigan school teacher, and her pilot, John Augie Pedlar.

The body was found on the beach yesterday at Huene, Cal. Investigators declared that it tallied in a general way with the description of the missing naval aviator. Two planes were lost in the Pacific in the race to Hawaii last summer, the "Miss Doran" and the "Golden Eagle." Jack Frost and Gordon Scott were flying the "Golden Eagle." None of the quintet—Frost, Scott, Knope, Pedlar or Miss Doran—has been heard from since they were last seen flying over the Pacific ocean. Captain William Erwin and his navigator A. H. Eichwaldt, who set out a few days after the Dole flight in hope of sighting traces of the two lost planes, likewise never returned.

INDIANA CHIEF EXECUTIVE IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Judge Ordered Jurors to Return Verdict of Not Guilty

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Calm again has descended upon Indiana's troubled political seas and Ed Jackson, unincumbered, today resumed his duties as Governor.

He was acquitted yesterday of the charge that he concealed an attempt to bribe former Governor Warren T. McCray in 1923 to name James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor. A jury returned a directed verdict of not guilty.

Special Judge Charles M. McCabe ordered the acquittal when he sustained a defense motion which contended the state failed to prove that Jackson, Robert I. Marsh, local attorney, and George V. Coffin, Marion County Republican Chairman, had concealed the alleged bribery by keeping McCray, then Governor, in fear. The statute of limitations of two years, therefore, applied in the case. The indictment was returned last fall.

Wanted Case Tried.

It was over Governor Jackson's protest that this attorneys filed the motion for acquittal. The Governor said he wanted to put his witnesses on the stand to refute statements of prosecution witnesses, including former Governor McCray, that he personally had put the alleged bribe before McCray. In a statement the attorneys said Jackson was prevailed upon to do their bidding because of Coffin and Marsh, who are scheduled to be tried later.

The Governor, however, will make public his evidence as soon as the Marsh and Coffin cases have been disposed of, the statement said. Defense attorneys believed the Jackson evidence "will convince fair minded persons that the charge of any wrong doing or criminal act on his part is wholly without foundation in fact."

CITY OFFICIALS IN WARNING AGAINST RABIES: SLAUGHTER OF OWNERLESS DOGS IS URGED

With the reported presence of rabies among dogs in the vicinity of Amboy Dr. J. B. Werren, Dixon city health officer today announced that it would be well to keep on the alert for the probable appearance of the disease here.

At the same time Mayor Frank D. Palmer gave out a statement relative to the presence in the city of hundreds of dogs, many without owners, concerning which the police department is constantly receiving complaints. Laxity upon the part of township officials to see that every dog in the township is properly tagged, was given by the Mayor as the principal reason for the prevalence of a vast number of ownerless canines.

Mayor Palmer, who served many years as town clerk of Dixon township, stated that a sufficient fund should be realized from the amount collected in dog taxes to provide for the payment of the salary of a township dog catcher, whose duty it would be to destroy dogs without license tags. The fact that dogs are not tagged and roam at random throughout the city and township was attributed as being the direct reason for the over-population of mongrel canines, Mayor Palmer added.

The money collected for dog tax goes into a fund which the county treasurer credits to the township, and from this fund, farmers are reimbursed for the loss of sheep killed either by dogs or wolves. This amount, according to Mayor Palmer, is not sufficient in Dixon township to pay the claims assessed against the fund each year, despite the presence in the township of a large number of homeless and ownerless dogs where rabies would be most likely to make its first appearance.

ROCKFORD TO SEE MYSTERY MAN OF LATE WORLD WAR

Will be Taken There for Identification if Possible

Rockford, Feb. 17.—Jerry Tarbot, "the mystery man of the A. E. F.," will be brought to Rockford for attempted identification if efforts of the American Red Cross, Winnebago county chapter, are successful.

Miss Catherine Kortendick, executive secretary of the Red Cross, yesterday requested David E. Tilley, director of Red Cross War service, St. Louis, to have the mystery soldier brought to Rockford for possible identification.

Charles Kaib, manager of the Rock River Cleaners & Dyers, has said that he believes Tarbot may have been the Heinie Tabor who operated a tailor shop in the rear of a clothing store near the Camp Grant Kishwaukee street garage in 1918.

Investigators here Department of justice investigators were in Rockford Dec. 10, 1927, seeking clues to clear up the identity of "Jerry Tarbot," the name assumed by an unidentified man when he walked into Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., four years ago. He has remained at the institution since that time, claiming that he cannot recall his proper identity because of shell shock suffered during the war.

Miss Kortendick believes that if Tarbot were brought to Rockford he might be identified by those persons who believe they know him from pictures, or by former soldiers and workers at Camp Grant who reside in the city.

The Tarbot case has puzzled physicians and federal and American League authorities for four years, in which time the man has become nationally known through publicity given him since.

Circumstances Similar Federal officers started their search here because R. F. Getz, New York, former Camp Grant officer, believed that Tarbot was a man he knew while in camp here. His identification corresponds with that of Mr. Kaib of Rockford.

The man Mr. Kaib knew is believed to have joined the Canadian army. The local man thinks that if he had a glance at the "mystery man" he could identify him.

Baker and Hudkins Ready for Big Bout

New York, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins and Sammy Baker tangle in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight to determine the challenger for the welterweight crown now guarded by Joe Dundee of Baltimore.

Baker, the soldier-boxer of Mitchell Field, concluded light training yesterday below the regulation poundage, tipping the beam at 146. On the other hand, Hudkins was said to weigh 148½, with a pound and a half surplus to reduce before the formal weighing-in exercises at the New York State Athletic Commission's offices in the afternoon.

The winner of tonight's tussle has been promised a bout with Dundee at the Garden on March 23 provided the Baltimore pugilist is reinstated by the Empire State solons. Dundee is still under the ban here from his recent fiasco in Los Angeles.

Hudkins and Baker have met twice previously. In the first tilt, Baker was victor when the referee stopped the bout in the seventh round in New York last summer to save Hudkins from a severe pummeling.

At a meeting in Los Angeles afterwards, Hudkins carried of a judges' decision in a close struggle.

POISON PLOT IS SEEN IN MAILING "FLU" CAPSULES

May Have Been Result of Formation Anti-Thievery Society

Aledo, Ill., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Postal authorities working on a "mail poison plot" case, which was responsible for the deaths of two Aledo residents, followed a trail today which led them toward Los Angeles or Long Beach, Calif.

Investigation indicated the plot may have had its inception 18 months ago with the organization of an Anti-Chicken Thief Society, in which one of the victims, Mrs. Curtis Lowry, 40, has been active. Maurice Baker, 33, the other victim, died on the same date as Mrs. Lowry, February 2, after having taken a sample "flu" medicine sent through the mails.

Dozen Got Capsules Twelve persons in Aledo, including the two victims and State's Attorney James A. Allen, were the only so far as is known who received poison capsules. None, except Mrs. Lowry and Baker, used the medicine. Following their deaths, State's Attorney Allen ordered an investigation and examination of the vital organs of the deceased, and the contents of the capsules.

The medicine, Attorney Allen said, had been mailed from Kansas City, Kansas, although the labels on the boxes indicated it was a product of the Zerbst Pharmaceutical Company of St. Joseph, Mo.

Were Tamped With "The capsules showed evidence of having been tampered with by someone other than the manufacturers," he said. "The boxes in which they were mailed were intended to hold 25, but in the ones mailed there were but three samples. An investigator for the Zerbst Company examined the boxes also and definitely established that the contents of the capsules had been tampered with."

Another theory on which authorities were working was that the poison had been mailed by a crank seeking to damage the reputation of the Zerbst Company.

I. V. Kinney, postoffice inspector of Rock Island, Ill., was assigned to the case. It is he who traced the mailing of the medicine to Kansas City and while there picked up clues which led him to believe the plotters had gone to California.

KIDS JOINED CLUBS Chicago, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Two Chicago high school ball players joined Chicago's Cubs in their first day of spring training yesterday at Catalina Island, Calif., and their plea so impressed Manager Joe McCarthy that he let the youngsters chase fungoes in the outfield. They were Jack Calvey, 18, and Dan Haley, 19, who had traveled west by bus, sleeping nights in the bus to economize on their meager savings.

PLAN TO STOP RADIO Because a radio fan residing in the west end of the city preferred to search the ether waves for a suitable program, while a fellow roomer wanted to sleep, the operator of the set was threatened with death and police were called to prevent a murder. It developed today. The police were called to the home where the trouble had reached a critical stage where they disarmed the wielder of the weapon, a 38 caliber revolver, and added it to a collection of confiscated fire arms at the police station.

No warrants have been sworn out, and as a result the names of the parties were not made public. It appears that a boarder, who works nights, was awakened from his slumbers by the operation of the radio set in the house. He arose and dressed and walking into the room threatened violence. When no heed was paid to his threats, he returned to his room, armed himself with the 38 caliber revolver, went back to threaten the life of the operator of the radio set. This brought about the police investigation.

HABEAS CORPUS DENIED Judge Harry Edwards in the circuit court yesterday afternoon denied the writ filed by Attorney H. A. Brooks who instituted habeas corpus proceedings in an effort to secure the release of Wardio Wallace of Stone Station, who was arrested last Wednesday.

PAWN TICKET MAY IDENTIFY NEGRO KILLED BY TRAIN St. Louis Detectives are Asket to Aid Local Authorities

Through a pawn ticket found in the clothing of the Negro, whose body was found in the North Western Railroad yards one mile east of Nelson yesterday morning, Coroner Frank M. Banker late yesterday afternoon was able to indicate a probable identification. By calling the firm in St. Louis who issued the pawn ticket, the Coroner was informed that the ticket was issued to a Negro who gave the name, W. Thompson, and his address as 2245 Randolph street, St. Louis, Mo.

Last evening Coroner Banker dispatched a message to the detective bureau at St. Louis, requesting its assistance in attempting to locate some relative who might claim the body or positively identify the remains. The coroner ordered that the body be held until word is received from the St. Louis police.

In the meantime the body of the unidentified Negro is being held at the Staples-Moyer mortuary where it is listed as "W. Thompson, otherwise unknown." Coroner Banker conducted an inquest over the remains yesterday afternoon, the jury returning an open verdict and finding that death was due to a fracture of the skull and other injuries sustained, presumably, when the deceased was thrown from a Chicago & North Western train some time Wednesday night in the yards one mile east of Nelson.

Appeared to be Sick J. S. Bergonz, station agent at Nelson testified having seen the dead man Wednesday morning. About 10:30, the agent stated to the jury, the Negro walked into the station at Nelson and sat down in one of the seats near the stove. The man appeared to be sick, the agent said, and sat for about a half hour, his head thrown back and apparently sleeping. The agent said that he noticed his actions when the man entered the waiting room but did not talk with him. When he left the station, the Negro asked no questions and the agent did not see him again until the body was found Thursday morning.

P. B. MacDonald, car foreman in the yards at Nelson, testified to the finding of the body and turning it over to the undertaker.

May Have Been Adict Two physicians who examined the body advanced the theory before the jury that the man may have been a drug addict and that his peculiar actions observed by station agent James Bergonz Wednesday were possibly due to his having taken cocaine.

This theory was advanced when a search of the dead man's clothing was made in an effort to secure some means of identification. In a vest pocket, which had been torn when the body was dragged, was found a small piece of a St. Louis newspaper and in this the physician found powder and crystals which they believed were cocaine. There were no tailor's tags in the clothing which might aid in the identification.

The physicians who examined the body estimated the Negro's age at between 35 and 38 years, his weight at about 155 pounds and his height at five feet six inches. On his body were many scars, one of which was a gold ring and in a small leather purse were found 72 cents and an old gold ring and in a pocket, a safety razor.

DAY'S MOTHER DEAD Washington, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Henry Mason Day, who testified in his own behalf yesterday in the Sinclair-Burns criminal contempt proceedings, was excused today from attendance at court until Tuesday because of the death of his mother in New York last night.

Before Day went on the stand yesterday, he was informed his mother was near death. He was not told of her death until this morning.

PREDICT FURTHER COURT ACTION TO PREVENT HOLDING PRIMARIES, RESULT OF LEGISLATORS' VOTES

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Legislators of the 55th General Assembly, who were called into special session several weeks ago to make a primary law safe for the spring primary, were nearly all back home today, doubtful that they had accomplished their purpose.

Threats came in the last moments of the session that a primary never would be held this spring. It was charged by proponents of the law and its amendments, that a trial judge had already been selected, and is waiting to issue an injunction against procedure under the Primary Act of 1927, that will effectively delay the election.

Hope and doubt were mingled in the minds of nearly all. Their last important act before sine die adjournment at 5 o'clock last night was to give Chicago the right to elect ward instead of precinct committees. It is this amendment which was feared would provoke the injunction. Governor Small signed the ward bill and others amending the primary act, and they became law immediately.

Amendments to the primary law provide for the use of party names on township ballots, give women of the downstate the right to serve as election judges and clerks; provide for registration in Chicago and create a certifying board to pass upon primary petitions.

Following the fight in the lower House over the Chicago committee-men, which gives that city forty committeemen instead of 2,300, a number of bills were passed to meet mistakes made in revenue bills passed by the last regular session.

FINAL VOTE WAS 9 TO 3 FOR CONVICTION; NEW TRIAL WILL BE DEMANDED BY PROSECUTION

Young Defendant is Abusive to Paper Men This Morn

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 17.—(AP)—The jury which for four days deliberated the fate of Harry Hill, charged with the killing of his mother, was discharged today after it reported a disagreement.

Twice before the jurors had reported they were unable to agree upon a verdict but each time were sent back by Judge Joe A. Davis for further deliberation. They had been out approximately seventy hours. The men received the case Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Loud talking and some swearing was heard from the jury room far into Tuesday night. Wednesday the men would not go to lunch and did not request any be sent in. The deadlock at that time was reported 8 to 4. The report of that vote for conviction persisted until the jury was discharged.

Kept in Room Long The jurors did not leave the courthouse until nearly midnight Wednesday, for that afternoon Lee O'Neil Browne, a member of defense counsel was drowned in the Fox river at the rear of his home.

The other Hill attorneys wished to keep the news from the jury. Dinner was served in the courtroom.

Last night found the twelve men exceedingly weary and Judge Davis sent them to the hotel at 9 o'clock when they complained the jury room was cold. As they returned this morning the expressions on their faces indicated the reported 8-4 deadlock would remain unbroken.

Judge Davis himself called the court to order as the jury was brought in at 11:10 a. m.

Judge Quizzed Jurors Addressing himself to the foreman, Judge Davis asked if a verdict had been reached. He received a negative reply, and also a negative to the question as to whether there could be an agreement.

Judge Davis then asked the jurors whether there was hope. Two or three replied that there was no hope. "All I can say is that I am sorry," said the judge, adding his thanks to the jurors for the work they had done.

State's Attorney Hanson stated he would ask that a new trial be set immediately after the trial of Hiram Reed, charged with causing the injury of Iola Bradford, young school teacher, by setting off a charge of dynamite in the stove of the school in which she taught. It is set for Feb. 24.

Throng Came Quickly The courtroom rapidly filled when news spread that the jury was being brought in. The corridors and stairways were thronged by crowds waiting to see Harry brought in.

Young Hill had his handcuffs removed just before he entered the courtroom. He walked over and greeted his father, Dr. H. C. Hill of Streator, and the two remaining defense attorneys, Arthur Shay and W. C. Jones, came over and had a conference with the young defendant and his father.

Harry, who was arrested in Seattle, Sept. 3 after his mother's body had been discovered in a shallow grave in the basement of her home at Streator Aug. 22, amazed everyone by his unconcerned manner during the trial. As the hours grew into days, however, and the jury failed to return a verdict, he became effervescent, and sang lustily in his cell at the jail.

Father Is Pleased Dr. H. C. Hill, the lad's father, who was divorced from Mrs. Eliza A. Hill, shortly before her death, also began to smile after the jury had been out some time. The doctor—an eye, ear and nose specialist of Streator—did not miss a day during the eight weeks of the trial. He sat unobtrusively in a corner just within the railing and had little to say to any one.

One of the most dramatic moments of the trial entered during the final argument of State's Attorney R. O. Hanson. He pleaded with the jury not to send the 22-year-old "town dandy" to the electric chair, for the sake of his mother. The state had repeatedly asserted its intention to demand a death sentence and the sudden switch in plans took the breath from the crowded little courtroom. The attorney did demand a prison sentence, however.

The trial fans had hardly recovered from their surprise when they received another shock. The defense counsel when Attorney Hanson finished speaking waived all rights to make a final argument in behalf of the youth.

Get Second Surprise Two reasons were ascribed to their actions, one the failure of prosecution to demand the death penalty, and the other was fear of special Prosecutor A. J. O'Connor's rebuttal. OLD MASTERS

SUNDAY SONG—
At ninety-two, she told the tale to me.
Dressed in crisp calico, hair crimped, she sat
And stroked the fuzzy-furred gray cat
That perched himself upon her kindly knee.
Indoors, contentment lay on everything.
Outside, the winter dusk came down, and hills
Grew purple-blue beyond her window sills
Where pink begonias recalled the spring.
"The reason I have lived in peace?" She said—
"When I was nine, one Lord's Day in the fall,
I entered singing 'Yankee Doodle' in the hall.
My grandfathers stood and gravely shook his head—
"Young lady, that is not a Sunday song!"
Since then, I keep all things where they belong."

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, salt codfish hash, corn bread, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Scalloped onions and macaroni, brown bread and cheese sandwiches, orange custard, peanut macaroons, milk, tea.
DINNER—Oyster cocktail, ham baked in milk, buttered cauliflower, grape fruit salad, molasses pie, milk, coffee.
Molasses pie is unusual and very good. Just at this time of year many housekeepers find their stock of canned fruits running low, with apples becoming scarce. So "molasses pie" will find a welcome when "pie timber" is short.
Molasses Pie
One cup molasses, 2-3 cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 cup nut meats, 2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar.
Mix and sift flour and sugar. Add to molasses with lemon juice, melted butter, eggs beaten until very light and finely cut nut meats. Turn into apple pan lined with plain, unbaked pastry and bake thirty or forty minutes in a moderate oven or until firm to the touch. Serve cold.

Study Child; Do Not Worry About Him

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 17—(AP)—Parents would worry less about their children if they would worry about themselves, Margaret Gray Blanton, lecturer on child guidance at Vassar Euthenics Institute, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., told the Illinois Farmers Institute here today.
"Grown folks need more insight into themselves," she said. "If we worried more about ourselves, we would have less need to worry about our children."
"We can't live a child's life for it, but we can be its friend and help it out. We need more patience with the child and young person through the period of growth."
Parents are too prone to become emotional about children, rather than to think practically of them, she asserted. "It is the duty of parents to stop long enough to study the child and see what he is like," she said, "and try to understand his real reason for being what he is."

W.O.M.L. Held Meeting Tuesday Evening

Building a Master Farm Home, Subject

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 17—(AP)—"Master Farm Homemaker" is a title carrying splendid qualities of euphony but little self-satisfaction. Mrs. Jephtha F. Randolph of Canton and one of Illinois' homemakers, told the Illinois Farmers Institute here today. Mrs. Randolph spoke before the institute on the subject of "Building a Master Farm Home."
"The making of a 'Master Farm Homemaker,'" she said, "doesn't begin with the charming ceremonies planned for the day when the insignias are received. Try as I may, I find very little self-satisfaction in this splendid sounding title; others deserve most of the credit."
Intervals of reading and resting are as important in the building of a successful home, Mrs. Randolph said, as the actual house work. She cited her philosophy of making a successful home, "Doing the best you can and trying to do better the next time. Always carefully planning your work and doing it efficiently. Not feeling ashamed that a little rest or reading is sometimes of more benefit than a kitchen scoured to super-whiteness, and a temper scoured to shreds."
An appreciation of how to spend money and how to save it is the fundamental of the successful farm home, she told the institute. "Affection in the home should not be withheld, nor should appreciation of accomplishments of other members of the family be forgotten," she said. "Neither should children be pampered in following these policies."
She paid a tribute to her husband for his work in building their home. "Kindly, thoughtful and patient, he has worked side by side with me in home, church and community," she said. "His foresight has resulted in much that has meant for convenience, comfort and comeliness in and about our home. He has appreciated house conveniences from knife sharpeners to water systems. He is a father to our children who will forego an afternoon or of home comfort to take his family to the woods, who will go fishing with the boys or play the part of 'bear' to the elder daughter, whose evening would otherwise be quite unhappy."
The whole family enters into the tasks about the farm, and home, she said.

IT ISN'T 'EQUALITY'
Woman doesn't want to be "equal" says Count Hermann Keyserling whose "Book of Marriage" gives him the right to speak on the subject of man and woman. "She is really striving for supremacy. American women got the habit of predominating from earliest pioneer times," says Keyserling, "due to her scarcity and the great demand for women."

WHY NOT?
That sounds reasonable enough. If a girl knew that she was so essential to a man that he had sold his entire tobacco crop in order to bring her from across the ocean, she'd naturally hold the whiphand. And she handed the train on to her great-great-granddaughters, even if they're not in such demand in a day when men don't need wives as badly as the early colonists did, and when it's much easier to obtain one when they do.
The only question is how long can the tradition last in the face of new circumstances?

WANTED: GOOD TASTE! By Olive Roberts Barton

What is good taste?
Some people will tell you, "It is that which rests and brings peace and tranquility to the eye of the observer." Others will say, "It is that which exhilarates and inspires without jarring."
Some say it is the artificial reproduction of nature, adhering as closely as possible to lines and color combinations found in the great outdoors. There are those who insist that it is mere simplicity. Opposed to these are the devotees of Oriental profusion. No one can say just what good taste

Cobwebs Tabooed

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 17—(AP)—Cobwebs, festooned gaily on the ceiling of restaurants, may have a decorative quality and serve well as fly-traps; but they are heartily disapproved by the food inspection forces of the state.
Last month six thousand sanitary inspections were made by the state, and in one hundred and forty-five restaurants and stores, orders were issued to clean up the ceilings, walls and floors.
The January records of the department of food inspection reveal that 312 food samples analyzed were pronounced illegal, and 57,066 pounds of food was confiscated and destroyed, as unfit for human consumption and a menace to public health.

Shades of Sir Christopher Wren! Why cannot we develop a style of American architecture that is American and is as good taste as those styles of our European neighbors? Surely we have architects who can do this in harmony.
The reason for a purely American type of house, or the adoption of a pure type such as Georgian or Southern Colonial, is obvious. We are developing mongrel style that is a mixture of everything. I have only recently beheld a new allotment of medium sized houses in an eastern city that are fearful and wonderful to behold. On some of them were even the brass bandings which in the hands of the skillful, and properly placed, are very acceptable. A throw back to the Grecian, I believe. But in a cheaply constructed building-plan house, imagine, kind friend, what it looks like.

Yes, we need an American standardized type of architecture, at least for the moderate sized house, something of good taste too.

GERMANY'S BIG QUESTION MARK.

Over here we don't care much whom the president names as his secretary of war, so long as he is an honorable man. We don't anxiously question whether he is a friend or a foe of the republic. We don't ask whether he will make the army a lance to pierce the country or a buckle to shield it. We just know he will be all right.

But things have not yet come to that happy issue in Germany. Hence all the Germans are greatly excited over the fact that Lieutenant General Wilhelm Groener, a professional soldier, has been made minister of defense, largely due to the intervention and pressure of President Hindenburg.

Otto Gessler, the man Groener succeeds, was nominally a member of the German Democratic party, but he has been held by all friends of the republic to have lent himself to every move calculated to perpetuate the caste system in the Reichswehr and to make it amenable to monarchist plots. So they are having great things of Groener, even though he be a soldier.

For it was Groener who told the ex-kaiser some plain truths. It was he who helped lead the German army back to the Fatherland after the armistice. It was he who opposed the Kapp "putsch" whose object was to overturn the republic. If Groener makes the Reichswehr a truly republican army, he will deal a death blow to all the hopes of the monarchist crew.

FLORIDA RESTORED.

A writer in a current magazine, discussing Florida, makes a point that is worth keeping in mind.

Real estate is moving slowly now, he says, and countless "for rent" signs are to be seen. The cities are not crowded as they were two years ago during the boom, and many a once-promising subdivision is being reclaimed by the scrub pines and palmettoes.

Yet, for that very reason, he declares Florida this winter is an ideal vacation spot. Accommodations are plentiful, prices are low; and, he adds, nothing can ever take away Florida's sunlight, Florida's warm breezes, Florida's yellow sands and blue water.

His moral is this: there never was such a good time to go to Florida for pleasure. The passing of the boom is really a Godsend to the tourist. Florida is a better, more pleasant place now than ever before.

Seven Long Island City girls, asked by a pastor to give the specifications of an ideal husband, were agreed that the main quality was the ability to support a wife properly. Proving that the ladies haven't entirely lost their sense of poetry.

There are roughly 30,000,000 automobiles in America now, says a statistician. A young man should ponder well the legal profession these days.

Street car conductors in Turkey are to eject passengers who have been eating onions. But just how is one supposed to know when a Turk has been eating onions?

The big balloon then floated high and disappeared up in the sky. The Tines, in the tires, kept on rolling over the ground. They kept together on their way and then the bunch heard Clowzy say, "It seems we're going very fast. I wonder where we're bound."

"What do we care?" weee Copy cried. "As long as I can stay inside this tire it is really fun to move along like this. The ground as far as I can see, is smooth and safe as it can be. I guess we'll keep on going until something goes amiss."

"Course now and then they'd hit a bump which made the tires go thumpy, thump, but all the Tines held on tight and didn't mind at all. Then Clowzy cried, "I'm dizzy now. I wish I could jump free, somehow." But he was rather scared to, 'cause he feared he'd take a fall.

For miles and miles they rolled real fast, and trees and shrubs went sailing past. They reached a little hill which looked, by far, too high to climb. Cried Clowzy, "Speed is what we need." And so the tires picked up speed. This made them reach the hilltop, 'cause the speed came just in time.

Then, as they started swiftly down, weee Copy cried, "There's Rubber Town. I see it at the bottom of this hill. We'll soon be there." Then Clowzy yelled, "I fear this race will roll us right on through the place. My goodness, if that happens, it will surely seem unfair."

Just then the bunch heard Clowzy groan. His tire hit upon a stone. It wobbled back and forth a while, and then there came a scare. With one loud bang the thing blew out, and all the bunch began to shout. They saw poor little Clowzy go adrift through the air.

(Clowzy gives the other Tines a good laugh in the next story.)

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

This is the fifth of a series of intimate letters exchanged by a modern daughter—Marye—and her "old-fashioned" mother—"Mom"—to be printed daily in The Evening Telegraph. Another will appear tomorrow.

Dear Marye:

I am sending the cook books as you requested, also a box of jellies and preserves, and I hope you won't confine your interest to the latter.

It is very sensible of you to plan to have Alan home for lunch but isn't it too far from his office to your apartment for him to come home every day? He would have to bolt his food, and that would be bad for his digestion.

I'd suggest that you arrange to give him a nice, nourishing dinner instead. I never have approved your going out so much. It must be expensive, and after all it's much the same food that you say he shouldn't have for lunch. Besides I think it's a mistake to drag a man out of his home in the evening, too often. And it won't do you any harm to get more rest either.

I saw Norman Darby on the street today and I must say he looks frightfully dissipated. I hope you didn't wear yourself out trying to live up to your new "freedom" as you call this shoving aside of natural feelings. You say Alan told you to do as you pleased. And he hasn't confessed he is jealous, has he?

Well, my dear, people don't always confess, do they? Even we old-

One Eyelid Mends the Other

By J. Eastman Sheehan, M. D. New York City. Member Gorgas

The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

The lower eyelid is meant to rest gently against the eye. So doing, it protects the eye from the drying quality of the air, keeping it bathed in the tear liquid supplied for that very purpose by a special gland. It happens, however, that sometimes the lid is drawn away from this contact with the eye, and instead of being held up against it is flattened down on the cheek.

This may be due to any one of a variety of causes. The lid muscle may have become flabby, and so unable to hold either itself or the other parts of the lid in the proper position. This is one of the penalties of growing old, and some of those who suffer from it appear to think the condition as incurable as old age itself.

Or one may have been injured on the face, the healing of the wound being followed by the formation of a scar near the eyelid. Such scars exert a pull upon the skin near them, and if it happens to be the skin of the lower lid then the whole lid is drawn outward and downward from its true position. In some instances, as with a severe burn, the eyelid skin itself is destroyed.

In such instances the downward pull on the lid may be exaggerated to the point where a very objectionable deformity has been produced. The membrane of the inner side of the lid, which was never meant to be exposed to the air, turns an unhealthy red. We have then the colloquial "red eye." And meantime the eye suffers from lack of moisture and from the action of the air, and may become seriously inflamed.

All such conditions are correctible. What may not be well known is that if a new skin cover is needed for the lower lid when it is to be set back in place against the eye, that cover is best taken from the skin of one of the upper eyelids. The two lids look very much alike, but the upper is much more actively in use. It does practically all the work of opening and closing the eyes. For that reason its skin is constantly folding and stretching, with the very curious result that a large proportion of it can be taken away without in the least interfering with the capacity of the lid to discharge its function. A strip of a certain form, measuring half the width of the lid and three-quarters of its length, can be very comfortably spared, and can be moved down to cover the lower lid. The match is perfect in color and texture, and its further agreeable feature is that this upper eyelid skin perhaps because it is the thinnest found anywhere on the body, heals easily and with so little scar that often it cannot be distinguished at all.

It is really quite wonderful what can be done with these bits of upper eyelid skin to get rid of slight disfigurements about the face.

Good Thoughts for Good People

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth, it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

How beautiful on the mountains, the feet of him that brings, like streams from living fountains, that published salvation.

And jubilee release.

Benjamin Gough.

How indestructibly the good grows and propagates itself, even among the weedy entanglements of evil.

Carlyle.

When men desire only news that is good, pure and holy, and demand that they be supplied with the news which confers only benefits upon the human race, physically, morally and spiritually, they will be supplied with that which they desire and demand, for supply will conform to demand.

MURDER OFFICIAL KILLED

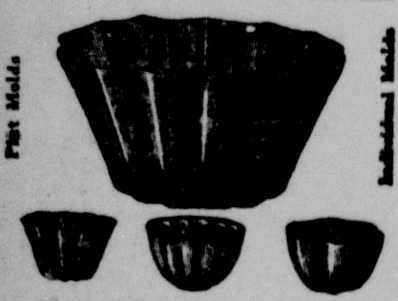

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 16—(AP)—Frank Agatti, deposed president of a Pittston union mine local, was shot and fatally wounded today in the headquarters of District No. 1, United Mine Workers, on the 12th floor of the Miners Bank Building here.

District organizer Anthony Figlock told police that Agatti's slayer was Sam Bonito, present head of the No. 6 local of the Pennsylvania Coal Company at Pittston.

Agatti received the contents of a revolver which, according to Figlock, Bonito fired from the pocket of his overcoat.

Agatti was hurried to Mercy Hospital where he died 20 minutes later.

Many Legal Papers

Chicago, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Six million, eighty-two thousand, six hundred and seventy-five pages of legal documents, copies of original deeds, mortgages, liens, wills, notes, etc., were turned out by the Cook county recorder's office last year, without a single mistake.

This seemingly remarkable record was accomplished through comparatively simple means—photography. Photostatic copies of legal documents was originated in 1924 by County Recorder Joseph Haas. Since then, virtually all states and cities have adopted the method.

Previously all documents were typewritten copies, at best an uncertain, imperfect system. A line, or even a word left out of a legal document could easily be ruinous. Under the photostatic system, the only errors in the copies are the errors appearing in the original document.

Work of the recorder's office was described for the state published

Welfare Magazine by Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, superintendent of the photostatic system. Last year, Mrs. Blackledge said, twenty-five cities sent records to Cook county to study the system with a view of adopting it.

Two types of machines are used in the photostatic work, one photographing only one side of the document, the other reproducing both sides. Cost of photography is approximately thirteen cents a page, while the cost by the old method was thirty-five cents a page. It was estimated that the department saved the county $400,000 last year.

If you are a reader of the Telegraph you should avail yourself of the opportunity to get one of our $1000 Accident Insurance Policies. The premium is but $1.00. Tel. No. 5 for particulars.

In the United States the crushed stone industry shows an investment of $260,000,000.

See to Close 350 Chicago Night Clubs

Chicago, Feb. 16—(AP)—Prohibition padlocks for 350 centers of Chicago night life will be sought within the next month the government has announced through Assistant United States District Attorney Edgar Elder. The cabarets, night clubs and theater-restaurants involved, he said, represent property investments totalling $15,000,000. Notices have been sent to proprietors of 100 places now under temporary injunction to appear in federal court tomorrow to have trial dates set for permanent injunction hearings. The cases will be heard by Judge Lindley of Danville, Ill., who will sit only on injunction cases during the month he will serve as emergency judge. Attorney Elder said "observation evidence" would be used in attempts to obtain permanent injunctions. This evidence consists of observing patrons pour their own liquor into glasses of cracked ice and gingerale served by proprietors. The government's drive against the cafes opened a few weeks ago when twelve of Chicago's centers of night life were raided by prohibition officers, who obtained the evidence upon which the temporary injunctions were issued.

Trace Some Bonds

Washington, Feb. 16—(AP)—Another session of the Senate Teapot Dome committee today apparently left the question of the Continental Trading Company's Liberty bonds as much a mystery as ever. Through representatives of New York brokerage firms the committee sought to trace the profits of the Continental, part of which it is charged went to Albert B. Fall, after the lease of Teapot Dome, but little progress was made. The testimony of the two witnesses heard, Joseph F. McMahon of Potter & Company, and James Bernieri of Childs & Company, dealt with sales of bonds, some of which finally have been traced by committee investigators to the Republican National campaign fund after the 1920 election, to which Harry F. Sinclair contributed $75,000. A check by the committee with Bernieri developed that at least $26,000 of $75,000 in bonds delivered by Will H. Hays, then Republican National Chairman, to the Empire Trust Company were Continental bonds. A check for them was made out to the order of T. Coleman Dupont, chairman of the Empire's Board, to whom Hays delivered them it was testified, the final amount being $74,718.78.

PUBLIC REBUKE FOR ADMIRAL BY NAVY SECRETARY

Fails to Attend Dinner Honoring Admiral Plunkett

New York, Feb. 16—(AP)—Failure of Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur to attend a testimonial dinner given Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett is viewed as a public rebuke by Colonel E. A. Simmons, chairman of the banquet committee. The occasion for the dinner was the Admiral's retirement from active service on his 64th birthday. Colonel Simmons read a letter in which Secretary Wilbur expressed regret at his inability to attend, but the Colonel later in a statement to reporters expressed the opinion that the letter was "but a smoke screen." "The real reason why he did not come and which he made known to me over the telephone," said the statement, "was fear that his presence at any dinner in honor of Admiral Plunkett so soon after the world-wide publicity in connection with the Admiral's speech at the National Republican Club on Jan. 21 would be misunderstood." The Colonel said that Secretary Wilbur had accepted an invitation to the dinner on January 16. The letter of regret came on February 7. In his speech of January 21 Admiral Plunkett in urging a large and well-equipped navy said: "If I read history correctly, and what we are doing today, we are nearer war today than we have ever been in our history because we are too damned efficient." "I don't care whether it is with Great Britain, or some other nation, you are going to have war just as surely as you are sitting in this room with me, if you dare to contest the control of the sea with your goods, not with your guns."

Reapportionment of House is Considered

Washington, Feb. 16—(AP)—For the third time in the past seven years a move has been launched in the House to reapportion its membership among the several states on the basis of their increased population since the 1910 census. Faced by a number of bills proposing methods for the reapportionment, the House Census committee is now engaged in hearings on the subject and is expected to report out a measure that will reallocate the membership on the basis of the estimated 1930 census. Although it is stipulated in the constitution that the reapportionment shall take place with each decennial census, all efforts for its consummation under the 1920 census were deadlocked, one group of representatives opposing any increase of the House membership while others refused to accept the loss of any state's representations. The proponents of the reapportionment claim that the increased population between 1910 and 1930 has led to wide discrepancies in the representation of a number of states as authorized under the Constitution. Under the bill now under consideration, drawn by the committee chairman, Representative Penn of Connecticut, the 1930 census reapportionment would include the following changes in the House membership: Indiana, loss of two; Iowa, loss of two.

FLOOD BILL REPORTED

Washington, Feb. 16—(AP)—Placing the entire burden and cost upon the federal government and carrying an appropriation of $473,000,000 a flood control bill was presented to the House today by its flood control committee.

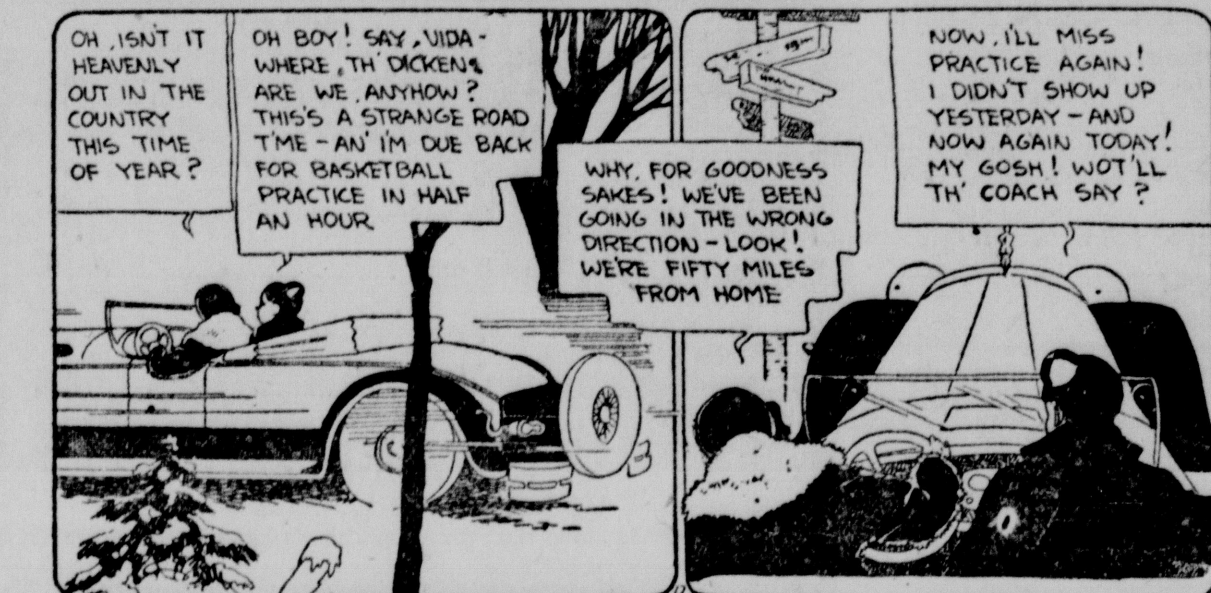

LETTER GOLF

HERE'S A FIGHTIN' ONE!
It's much better to GIVE than to TAKE—especially in the ring, but according to our count there are only four jumps between the two. Perhaps you can beat the par solution printed on page 9.

G	I	V	E
T	A	K	E

THE RULES
1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.
One solution is printed on page 9.

FATHER STANLEY KETCHEL KILLED: YOUNG SON HELD

Met Fate Similar to That of Former Star of Ring

Grand Rapids, Feb. 17—(AP)—Thomas Kiecal, 74, father of Stanley Ketchel, whose sensational career in the prize ring was cut short by an assassin, has met a similar fate.

Kiecal's body, with the throat slashed, was found in a barn loft at the family home yesterday. John Kiecal, a son, in whose possession a bloodstained knife was found, was held.

The killing, occurring nearly 17 years after Stanley was shot to death at Conway, Mo., is believed by authorities to have had its motive in a dispute over land left by the former middleweight champion which since has multiplied in value. Stanley, who adopted the ring name of "Ketchel," bequeathed to his mother parcels of resort land along the Pine Island Lake district near here.

Mrs. Kiecal recently drew up a will, Police said, under the terms of which the property would have reverted to her husband at her death. Alexander another son, instituted court proceedings in an effort to obtain $15,000 from the mother as his share of the estate. The suit is still pending. Although no legal action was taken by the other brothers, Leon of New York City, and John and Arthur, who live here, they were said to have objected to provisions of the will.

John, arrested several miles from the scene of the slaying, denied connection with the killing, but refused to answer questions, police said. He would give no account of his movements nor explain the bloodstained knife.

John is the youngest brother of the late Stanley.

Mr. Wear succeeds Julian S. Myrick of New York who has headed the Davis Cup committee since 1920.

St. Moritz, Switzerland, Feb. 17—(AP)—Sportsmanship has paved the way for a new amity pact between the United States and France.

White Entry Auto Speed Race Barred

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 16—(AP)—With one Titanic rival eliminated from officially recognized competition because it did not conform mechanically to regulations of the American Automobile Association, two other racing machines today were tuning up for an attempt to better the world's speed record.

J. M. White, Philadelphia, yesterday was refused official sanction for a trial against the 203.7 miles per hour gait set up last year by major H. O. D. Segrave of England. The governing body barred the machine, A. H. Means, secretary of the A. A. A. said, because it was not equipped with a clutch, differential or reverse gear.

Mr. White said last night that after preliminary trials the machine would be rebuilt to conform to A. A. A. standards but that if that body refused to time it officially, it would be timed with apparatus which Mr. White and his associates brought here for just such eventualities.

Withdrawal of the White entry, with its 36-cylinder motor and non-streamline experimental construction, left the machines of Frank Lockhart, Indianapolis, and Malcolm Campbell, London, to essay new records during the present program of speed events on the beach. They have until next Wednesday to make their efforts.

RABIES FOUND IN DOGS NEAR AMBOY TWO WERE KILLED

County Veterinarian Issues Warning to Owners of Dogs

Amboy, Feb. 17—Extreme caution should be exercised by all dog owners whose animals act suspiciously, Dr. H. C. Barth, veterinarian, advised yesterday, after ascertaining that at least two dogs in the vicinity of Amboy had been suffering with rabies. Both dogs were killed, the nature of their disease becoming quite apparent and the head of one of the animals was shipped to the department of public health at Springfield where it arrived Tuesday. Thomas G. Hull, chief of the division of laboratories, pronounced the dog rabid in a letter to Dr. Barth received here Wednesday. The letter reads:

"The dog's head sent by you and received in this laboratory February 14 has been examined and Negri bodies were found to be present in the nerve cells of the brain. The dog was, therefore, rabid."

Whether other dogs in the vicinity of Amboy have become rabid is not known as yet, but there is every possibility, according to Dr. Barth, that other cases will come to light. Chicago and other Illinois cities have been visited with alarmingly prevalence of rabies in the past few months and it is feared that the disease may have been contracted by other dogs in Lee County.

The most dangerous feature of the disease lies in the fact that live stock on the farms may contract it through bites from infected dogs or other warm blooded animals. In order to curb any possible spread of rabies in the community, the following instructions should be followed out by any one owning a dog under suspicion.

When a dog acts suspiciously or when he bites a person he should not be killed, but should be securely chained in a safe place and provided with his regular food supply. A veterinarian should be called to observe the animal. If the dog remains well and healthy for the next ten days or two weeks, he may be released and any person whom he may have bitten need have no fear of coming down with rabies because of the bite. If, on the other hand, the dog should manifest the symptoms of rabies, according to the veterinarian's advice, he should be killed so that the head may be detached without mutilation, packed in ice in a double tin lined container and expressed to the laboratory of the state department of health. After the results of the examination are known, plenty of time will remain for starting the Pasteur treatment in any humans who may have been infected from a bite of the dog.

Stray dogs are a serious menace in spreading rabies among other dogs and every effort should be made to see that dogs do not bite one another, as it is only through biting or the inflicting of scratches that the disease may be spread. How far the illness may have advanced in the country around Amboy will not be known until further outbreaks are reported. As a precautionary measure, every one owning dogs is advised to keep them off the streets and tied, if on the farm, unless they are being watched. Reports on dogs acting suspiciously rabid should be made immediately to some veterinarian so that the animal may be placed under observation.

Employment Head

Boosts Older Men

Washington—(AP)—The problem of finding employment for men past middle age who are well equipped to perform valuable service to industry and society is one of the most difficult confronting the department of labor, in the opinion of Francis I. Jones, director general of the United States employment service.

Employers shy from gray-haired applicants for work, Jones says, but his service finds many men between 40 and 60 who are just as able to give good service as are young men.
